Directory of
COAL PRODUCERS IN INDIANA

Compiled by

INTRODUCTION

General Remarks:--Directories are among the most useful publications of the Indiana Geological Survey, but their usefulness is short lived because of frequent changes in the number and location of companies engaged in a particular industry. Indiana's coal industry is no exception; many companies operate mines for a few months and then move to new acreage, change ownership, or cease business.

The companies listed in this directory were operating underground coal mines or held permits for surface mines that were active or idle* when mine sites were field checked during May 1980. This directory is complemented by Indiana Geological Survey Miscellaneous Map 27, "Map of Southwestern Indiana Showing Locations of Active Coal Mines."

Format:--Active and idle mines are listed alphabetically by county, company name, and mine name in Index 1. Index 1 also includes a numerical designation for the mine that can be keyed to Index 2 and Index 3; an address and telephone number for the mine; the location of the office, plant, or tipple; and the coals that are mined. The separate pits of a large mine are named as a subheading under that mine, and the coals mined in each pit are listed with the appropriate pit. An asterisk in front of a mine or pit name means that mine or pit was idle when field checked.

*Pit or mine open or machinery on site but coal mining not in progress at time of visit.

Companies with active or idle mining operations in Indiana are listed alphabetically in Index 2. Index 2 provides addresses and telephone numbers for main offices and regional offices relevant to active or idle mining in Indiana. Index 2 also includes a tabulation of index numbers for the active and idle operations of each company. These index numbers correspond with the mine and pit numbering used in Index 1.

Index 3 is a tabulation of mines indexed by coal seam or seams mined. Each mine or pit is listed one or more times under each of the coals mined in that pit. The coals are arranged stratigraphically from the stratigraphically highest to lowest coal (fig. 1).

Coal Names:--Names have been associated with Indiana coals since the earliest days of mining in the state. Informal names were used by the miners and residents of an area to describe their local coals. Although the names are frequently colorful, they tend to complicate and confuse the regional correlations of coals. Early geologists attempted to systematically trace coals throughout southwestern Indiana and apply a uniform name to a coal they felt could be traced over a wide area. David Dale Owen (1857) used Arabic numbers to designate minable coals from the lowermost to the top, and his numbering system is the basis for the coal numbering used in western Kentucky today. E. T. Cox (1869) abandoned Owen's numbering system in Indiana and designated coals with letters but this system was soon abandoned. G. H. Ashley (1899) and his co-workers divided the Pennsylvanian rocks of Indiana into eight intervals or "divisions," which they numbered from the base upward with Roman numerals. Divisions were bounded by major coals and each division included a regionally persistent coal at its base that was given the division number. Hence, Division V consisted of the rocks below Coal VI plus the major coal at its base--Coal V. Ashley recognized that minor coals occurred between the major seams and he designated these by applying the division number followed by a letter designation from the base of the division up; hence, Coal IIIa is the first minor coal in Division III (Coal III plus the rocks below Coal IV). Ashley's divisions are no longer used as such but his coal naming system is still widely applied in industry and informally by geologists in Indiana to designate certain coals.

A number of years ago the Indiana Geological Survey adopted a system of nomenclature for coals in keeping with modern geologic conventions for naming sedimentary rocks but which also retains the Ashley numbers still commonly used in industry and informally by geologists. The coal nomenclature used in this directory and the generalized chart of the names for coals and associated strata (fig. 1) follow Shaver and others (1970). Coals that do not have a formal stratigraphic name or that have not been precisely correlated in mapping are listed as "unnamed" coals in the appropriate formation unit (fig. 1).
